

Regulations on Financial Support for Students

Section I: Circumstances beyond the student's control

1. Definitions

The following terms are used in these regulations:

Executive Board: Executive Board of Leiden University

DUO: Education Executive Agency within the Ministry of Education, Culture and Science

SEA: Centre of Expertise for Student and Education Affairs at Leiden University

Study finance: basic grant, supplementary grant, and student travel card provided by DUO sometimes supplemented with a loan

Student: Someone who is registered as a student at Leiden University

Performance-related grant period: The period in which a student uses study finance from DUO but has not used this for longer than the nominal time of the bachelor and master programme combined.

WHW: Higher Education and Academic Research Act (Wet op het hoger onderwijs en wetenschappelijk onderzoek)

WSF2000: Student Finance Act 2000 (Wet op de Studiefinanciering 2000)

2. Purpose of the regulations

These regulations implement Section 7.51(2)(c–f) of the WHW, which states that students must be granted financial support if they have fallen behind in their studies due to exceptional circumstances as identified in Article 3 of these regulations.

In accordance with Article 7.46(2) of the WHW, these regulations also provide for a reimbursement to be paid to students who pay an institutional rate of tuition fees in the event of a study delay due to the aforementioned exceptional circumstances.

3. Grounds for study delay

The financial support may be granted to students who deviate from the regular degree programme as a result of one or more of the following exceptional circumstances:

- a. illness or pregnancy and giving birth;
- b. work-related disability or chronic illness;
- c. exceptional family circumstances;
- d. educational circumstances beyond the student's control.

4. Conditions

To be eligible for financial support, the student must meet one of the following conditions:

The exceptional circumstances have arisen in a period during which:

- a. The student received study finance through DUO (at a minimum a student travelcard, receiving only alternative funding through DUO in order to pay for the tuition fee does not qualify as student finance) and had not received this for longer than the nominal duration of the programme (and the student must be enrolled in the bachelor's or master's degree programme). If the student is following both a bachelor and master programme for which the student is entitled to study finance, the nominal period for both these programmes is added up. If a student will only follow either a bachelor or a master programme for which the student is entitled to study finance, the period is restricted to the nominal duration of either the bachelor or the master programme.

- b. Insofar as compensation under Article 7(b) is concerned – if the exceptional circumstance relates to educational circumstances beyond the student’s control, the student must have been enrolled as a student during this period;
- c. insofar as compensation under Article 7(b) or (c) is concerned – the study delay due to exceptional circumstances must have arisen in a period during which the student was required to pay the institutional rate of tuition fees and have occurred within the nominal duration of study.

Besides having to meet one of the requirements above, all requirements below must be met:

- d. the student must have deviated from the regular degree programme as a result of exceptional circumstances as identified in Article 3.
- e. Both during the financial support period and during the period in which the student first deviated from the regular programme, the student must have paid tuition fees to and been enrolled at Leiden University.
- f. The student must have met the conditions set out in Article 5.
- g. The student must comply with arrangements made with the study adviser that are intended to prevent or limit any new deviation from the regular programme. This can include the recommendation to terminate enrolment.
- h. In the case of the exceptional circumstances referred to in Article 3(a–c), the student must submit a statement from an independent expert (such as a psychologist or doctor) which confirms the duration and the severity of the exceptional circumstances. This statement must show the consequences of the circumstances for the student’s ability to perform academically.

5. Notification of and arrangements regarding exceptional circumstances

- a. Unless the student cannot reasonably be considered capable of doing so, the student must notify the study adviser of the situation within 30 days of a study delay arising due to exceptional circumstances. This relates exclusively to notification of the study delay, and not to notification of the exceptional circumstances themselves before any study delay has occurred. Together, the student and study adviser draft a study timetable which must be reasonably achievable in view of the student’s circumstances and which must limit the study delay as much as possible.
- b. The number of months of a study delay during which a student is eligible for financial support as referred to in Article 7 is determined by comparing the number of credits earned during the period in which the student was hindered by extenuating circumstances with, with the nominal study progress of 60 credits per academic year, and registering one month’s delay for every five missed credits, insofar as it is likely that these credits were missed as a result of the circumstances referred to in Article 3 of these regulations. Delays caused by other circumstances or example those caused by regular failure of the student, board membership or a wrong study choice, are not eligible for financial support in accordance with section I of these regulations. If a student was hindered during part of the academic year, it is not possible to register more months of study delay than the period during which the student experienced the hindrance.
- c. If the circumstances in question render the study plan no longer feasible, the student must contact the study adviser as soon as possible to amend the study plan.

- d. The compensation referred to in Article 7(a) is registered per academic year and there is a maximum of six months registration per academic year if the student has been registered for the whole of the academic year. If the student was registered for less than the whole academic year the maximum registration is 50% of the amount of months the student was registered for.
- e. If the delay was caused by pregnancy and childbirth without complications, the maximum amount of registration is four months for the mother and one month for the father.
- f. The request to register the study delay must be submitted after the end of the academic year during which the delay arose, between 1 October and 1 March of the following academic year. Students who began their programme on 1 February can submit their request between 1 March and 1 August.

6. Request and confirmation

- a. Students can claim financial support under these regulations for a delay registered in accordance with Article 5(b), (d) and (e).
- b. The request must be submitted using the designated form and be accompanied by relevant documents. All requests must include:
 - A personal statement in which the student provides information about the nature of the study delay and the progress made in the year of study during which the delay arose.
 - An overview from DUO showing that study finance was used during the delay and the student did not receive study finance for longer than the nominal duration of study (including both bachelor's and master's degree programmes if a student is or will follow both a bachelor and master programme for which the student is eligible for student finance. If a student will only follow either a bachelor or a master programme for which the student is eligible for student finance, the student will have to have not used study finance for longer than either the nominal duration of the bachelor or master programme the student follows); this condition is not applicable if the delay arose due to educational circumstances beyond the student's control or if the student paid the institutional tuition fee.

Depending on the cause of the delay, at least one of the following documents must be attached:

- A statement from an independent expert (such as a psychologist or doctor) in the event of a disability or medical/psychological circumstances;
 - A supporting document, such as an order of service for a funeral, if the delay was caused by exceptional family circumstances;
 - A statement from the study adviser if the delay was caused by educational circumstances beyond the student's control.
- c. The financial support will be terminated at the end of the number of months granted by the Executive Board, or at an earlier date if the student passes the examinations required to complete the bachelor's or master's degree programme in question. If the study delay has been caught up, compensation is not possible.

7. Amount of the financial support

- a. Students who fell behind in their studies during a period in which they received study finance receive €300 in financial support per registered month if the delay occurred before 1 September 2024 – in accordance with Article 5(b) – plus an additional grant during the same period if they received an additional grant through DUO in the month prior to the period of financial support. If the delay occurred after 1 September 2024 students will receive the same amount they received as a grant (basic + supplementary) in the last month they have a right to this grant from DUO.

If a student also receives compensation for the study delay through DUO, the amount granted by DUO will be deducted from the compensation granted by Leiden University. This means that the 12 months of basic grant, 12 months of supplementary grant and the extra amount that will be transferred from a loan to a gift when a student graduates will be deducted from the compensation a student can receive through Leiden University.

- b. If the study delay arose due to educational circumstances beyond a student's control, the financial support is supplemented with compensation equal to the monthly tuition fee rate if the student pays the statutory rate or – where applicable – equal to the difference between the statutory and institutional rates of tuition fees for the period during which the student could not receive education. If the student does not receive or has not received student grants and loans during the period in question, the compensation for the tuition fees is supplemented by the amount of the basic study grant DUO offers for students who are not living at home.
- c. Where students fell behind in their studies during a period in which they paid the institutional rate of tuition fees, they are entitled, during the registered study delay period, to continue their studies after the end of the nominal duration of the study programme, paying an institutional rate equal to the statutory rate.

8. Form and payment of the financial support

- a. The student requests payment by submitting the 'Requesting payment of financial support for delayed study progress' form. This form must be submitted to SEA; the student will receive correspondence relating to the payment within six weeks.
- b. In accordance with Article 7, the request for payment of financial support can be made while the student is enrolled, but not before the nominal duration of the programme has elapsed or, if the student receives study finance, before all the months of student grant from DUO have been used up.
- c. The difference between institutional and statutory rates of tuition fees as referred to in Article 7(c) is not paid out; instead, it is deducted from the institutional tuition fees payable.

9. Hardship clause

In very exceptional circumstances, to be determined at the discretion of the Executive Board, in which the rejection of a request in accordance with these regulations, or the application of provisions contained in these regulations, would lead to a predominantly unreasonable situation, the Executive Board is authorised to deviate from these regulations in the student's favour.

10. Entry into force

These regulations enter into force on 1 September 2024 and replace the Regulations on Financial Support for Students 2022.

At the time of requesting financial support to be paid, the student must be enrolled as a student at Leiden University and have paid the relevant statutory tuition fees; or the financial support must be requested no later than three months after the student terminated the relevant study programme.

4. Request and confirmation

- a. - d. The Executive Board's decision on the request will be sent to the student within six weeks following receipt of all relevant documents. The decision will also explain the option and the time frame to submit a notice of objection.

5. Amount of the financial support

The amount of the financial support is €315 per month. Students who receive financial support for board membership within a board that have been granted 24 months of financial support or more, will receive a supplement of €123,90 per month of financial support. These amounts will be indexed annually and published on the Leiden University website.

6. Payment of the financial support

- a. Students who receive financial aid due to membership of a board referred to in Appendix I or Appendix III receive this support in the form of a gift paid upon request.
- b. Students who receive financial aid due to membership of a participation body or a board referred to in Appendix II receive this support in the form of a gift paid in accordance with a procedure yet to be determined.
- c. Notwithstanding (a), students who are in receipt of 12-month financial support will be paid per month.
- d. Where a grant for board membership was wrongly obtained, for example because incorrect details were submitted, this grant must be repaid.

7. Limit to grants for membership of a committee

Students may not receive more than 18 months' financial support for board membership during their entire period of enrolment.

8. Hardship clause

In very exceptional circumstances, to be determined at the discretion of the Executive Board, in which the rejection of a request in accordance with these regulations, or the application of provisions contained in these regulations, would lead to a predominantly unreasonable situation, the Executive Board is authorised to deviate from these regulations in the student's favour.

9. Entry into force and transitional clause

Appendix I – Non-faculty bodies, associations, student groups, job fair organisations and specific activities

- a. Under these regulations, persons who, in the estimation of the Executive Board, carry out unpaid activities in the service of the university community, or for the benefit of the education they receive, are eligible for financial support. The application procedure and conditions may be found on the student website.
- b. Under these regulations, members and board members of external organisations whose activities focus on the university community in Leiden, to be determined at the discretion of the Executive Board, are eligible for financial support. Such an organisation must satisfy certain conditions before the members or board members may be considered eligible for financial support. The application procedure and conditions may be found on the student website. The number of members an organisation has and the nature of its activities are contributing factors in determining the number of months' support to be paid under these regulations.
- c. Members of the board of student groups are eligible for grants for board membership. The application procedure and conditions for these grants may also be found on the web page referred to in (a).
- d. Members of the board of job fair organisations are eligible for grants for board membership. The Executive Board has made a number of months' funding available for this purpose (Pot C). The application procedure and conditions for these grants may also be found on the web page referred to in (a).
- e. Grants for board membership can be made available for specific activities which are organised on behalf of the Leiden University student community and which are not regular activities. The Executive Board has made a number of months' funding available for this purpose (Pot B). The application procedure and conditions may be found on the student website.

Appendix II – Faculty participation bodies and study associations

Study associations

- a. Each year, the Executive Board makes a number of months' funding for board membership available for study associations.
- b. The Executive Board grants funding to the board of a study association each year on the recommendation of LASSO.
- c. In consultation with LASSO, a procedure will be established for requesting, and allocating these funds within the faculty. Information about the way in which the funds are divided and about the procedure may be found on the student website.
- d. The financial support granted by the Executive Board is allocated to the individual board members at the recommendation of the chair of the association.

Participation

- e. At the end of the academic year, the Faculty Board concerned informs SEA which students are eligible for flat-rate grants for board membership as a result of their membership of the faculty participation body.

LUMC Faculty Council/Student Council:	2 months
Programme Committee:	1 month
Chair of Faculty Council/Student Council:	1 month extra
Vice-chair of Faculty Council/Student Council:	0,5 month extra
Group Chair within Faculty Council/Student Council:	0,5 month extra
Chair or Vice-chair of Programme Committee:	0,5 month extra

Students who are eligible for this financial support can contact SEA directly to request payment of the months of funding for board membership. The Faculty Board will publish the procedure and conditions regarding eligibility for grants for board membership on the faculty website.

Appendix III – Student clubs (PKvV) and sports clubs

Each year, the Executive Board makes a number of months' funding available for PKvV associations and sports clubs.

- a. This total is subdivided into a number of months to support the associations' regular activities and a number of months to support their other activities (Fonds Bijzondere Activiteiten, Special Activities Fund).
- b. The Executive Board awards funding to the board of a study association each year at the recommendation of PKvV.
 - b.1. PKvV can make such a recommendation if the association satisfies certain criteria. The number of members of the association is relevant, as is its stability. There must also be a link between the number of members, the nature and relevance of the activities and the details of the recommendation.
 - b.2. Boards wishing to become eligible for financial support from the total number of months' funding available for activities which do not count as regular activities must submit a request to PKvV; PKvV will then attach its recommendation and pass the request on to the Executive Board.
- c. The financial support granted by the Executive Board in accordance with 1 and 2 is allocated to the individual board members at the recommendation of the chair of the association.

Association members who are not on the board may be nominated for financial support if their activities make them an exceptional asset either to the association of which they are a member or to the university.

Delays which fall outside the remit of the timetable, for example those caused by regular failure of the student, wrong study choice or board member activities are not eligible for financial support in accordance with this part of these regulations.
